Scope: CLINICAL CHEMISTRY is devoted to the publication of original and review articles on the application of the science of chemistry to the better understanding of the functioning of the human organism in health and disease.